The Directors

Faculty and Administration

Members of the administration spoke to students during orientation.

Mrs. Hughes stayed busy during registration periods.

Dr. Allen greets student Thomas Middleton and his daughter.

Prepare a Smooth Start

Mr. Lewis and Mrs. Hardin check students' registrations.

Special Events Give Everyone

A group of volunteers throw their weight into the tug-of-war competition on Field Day.

A smiling group reflects the success of the 1979 spring dance which featured "Janice" (top left). (lower left) Jimmy Bellamy sets his sights on a ringer.

Intermission

During the campaign speeches assembly, Mary Jacobs, candidate for SGA president, spoke to gathered students while her campaign manager, Chester Mosley, looked on.

Donna Oxendine and Wettea Lowry enjoy the pause that refreshes. (right)

Institute Life Relies

With school catalogues and information in hand, students begin registration.

Cosmetology student Marilyn McKeithan needs help from her young son Vincent to carry her load of new books.

Jerry Oxendine looks for directions in his student handbook during orientation.

On Printed Word

Buying books brings visions of approaching study hours.

Students in the fees line have time to get acquainted.

The Script

Take Five

Mr. Lambert takes advantage of an opportunity to relax.

Katie McCollum and Carolyn Oxendine enjoy the periodical room in their spare time.

For some students the best part of the school day comes during informal gatherings in the student lounge.

A Breather Adds Fun

(below) It's great to reach the snack bar before the crowd.

Charlie Locklear, Cassie Oxendine, and Shirleen Wallen choose the courtyard as the scene for a lunch in the sunshine.

For Susie Jacobs, Billy Hammonds and Drendle Hammonds, lunch tastes great after a morning's recreation on Field Day 1979.

Extra Minutes

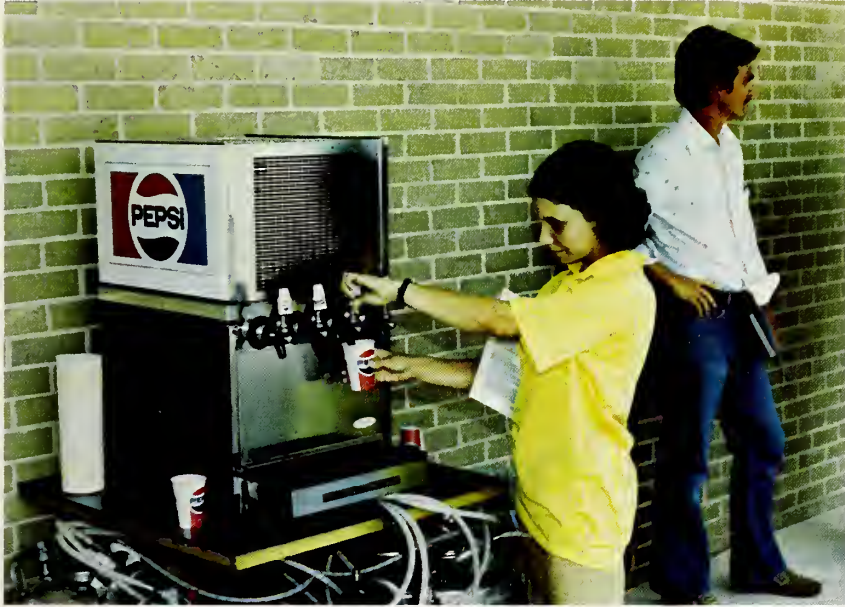

Max Biggs and Ralph Carbaugh wait to begin registration.

Mrs. McLean answers a question for Beth McMillan.

Can Always Be Filled

(left) James McNeil and Chiquita Morrison share first-day experiences.

The Classroom and Shop Are

Dr. Pauli emphasizes a point to his English 101 class.

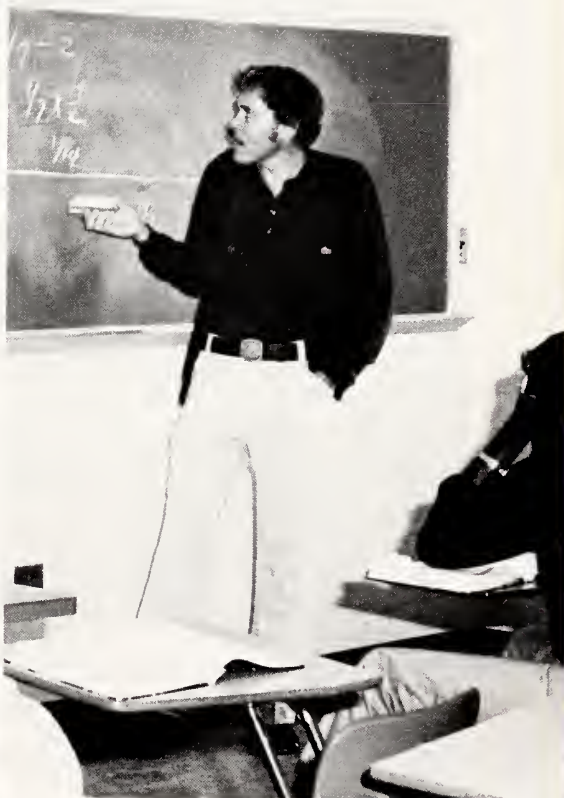

Lydia Horton and Rebecca Bunch examine the internal organs of a human body mock-up.
(right) Stevie Oxendine learns to use a micrometer caliper in physics lab.

Where the Action Is

The Play

Visions of the Future Make

For Rae Jean Aderhold buying books brings the end of a busy morning.

Students are reminded to register on time.

The student lounge takes on a different look for orientation.

The Applause

Beginning Worthwhile

Students approach graduation ceremonies with high spirits despite high temperatures.

A sea of gowns and mortarboards invades the Armory.

President Allen and the Board of Trustees provide leadership.

Dr. Allen discusses Robeson Technical Institute's "Annual Report" with State Senator Sam Noble.

Behind the Scenes

Ervin McLellan finds the library a good place to study and a good place to take a break from studying.

A happy group of people display awards they won when the S.G.A. Awards were presented on Field Day, 1979.

Outstanding vocational students are honored with letters of recognition and awards from local corporations.

R.T.I. is well-served by enthusiastic students. Here students graduating in 1979 are shown with "Service Awards" for outstanding service.

Grand Finale

In Memory of Amando Sweat 1957-1979

Amando Sweat was a leader. Instructors marked him as one of the most outstanding students ever to attend Robeson Tech. He was a natural electrician, enthusiastic about learning and receptive to every chance of improving himself. Students appreciated his abilities, his mature attitude, and his quiet easy-going manner. When he said anything, others listened because they knew it was worth hearing. At commencement he received an Outstanding Vocational Student award, a symbol of the admiration and respect all of us had for him. His exceptionally fine influence lives on with us.
